How to live as independently as possible at home and in our communities

Get Connected to Your Care Options

The majority of Missouri's seniors say they want to receive long-term care services and supports in their own homes or in homelike settings in their communities. People want choice and control over every day decisions. It is important to know where to turn to learn about the choices available and how to access services.

This brochure, developed by the Department of Health and Senior Services, lists four agencies that can connect you to services and resources to help you or a loved one age in the most appropriate environment. Many more resources are available on the Internet or at your local senior center.

Department of Health and Senior Services

The Division of Senior and Disability Services helps adults with disabilities age 18 to 59 and seniors age 60 or older who receive Medicaid (now called MOHealthNet), get services such as nurse visits, home-delivered meals and personal care, services that maximize independence. Call the Division of Senior and Disability Services' Call Center at 1-866-835-3505 for information about these services.

2-1-1

United Way's 2-1-1 is an easy to remember phone number that is answered 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, by a trained professional who can refer you to a community agency or organization that can provide the assistance or services you need. The call is free and confidential.

Centers for Independent Living

The 22 centers for independent living in Missouri provide services to people with disabilities to increase their independence and opportunities to participate in day-to-day life within their communities. Each center offers four core services--peer counseling, advocacy, information and referral, and independent living skills training. Each may also provide transportation and housing assistance.

Area Agencies on Aging (AAA)

Missouri has ten Area Agencies on Aging. Each supports senior centers near you. Senior centers provide meals, transportation, recreation and more. Visit <http://www.ma4web.org/> to locate an Area Agency on Aging in your region.
