Guardianship Dealing With The Tough Issues

Is the deficit practice with the guardian or the facility? How do you advocate for your resident when the guardian doesn't cooperate?

Tough questions and tough issues - know how to guide your staff.

Recent increase in citations when resident's with guardians have needs which the guardian disputes or refuses to allow. As geriatric dementia as well as younger dementia's and mental health case mix increases in our facility we need to know the national standards which guide these guardianship issues. Review DHSS position and develop policies to guide your staff on this critical and developing issue.

This session will include LTC Ombudsman Staff, Attorney's, and Cheryl Parsons.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Missouri LTC Ombudsman

LTC Ombudsman Staff will participate in this panel discussion.

Elder Care Attorney - We are contacting attorney's in each area for participation in this session.

Cheryl Parsons is a registered nurse, long-term care administrator, former skilled facility owner, author, long-term care consultant, speaker and informal dispute resolution reviewer. She has over 36 years of combined nursing, administration, ownership and consulting experience in the industry and has received awards in recognition of her accomplishments and dedication to improving long term care. Cheryl speaks passionately about person-centered care and has dedicated a large part of her speaking career to motivating providers at all levels to leave the institutional model behind. She has published two books, "The Core Building Blocks of Quality in LTC," and "The Crucial Role of Social Services in Long Term Care." In addition she has prepared and spoken on, over 500 seminar programs on various issues which challenge the industry. In July of 2011 she began work with Primairs, Missouri's Quality Improvement Organization, as an Informal Dispute Resolution Reviewer.
