Attention Exam Candidates and Prospective Examinees:

NAB is in the process of transitioning the NAB and state examinations to a new structure. Please be advised that there will be a brief “blackout” period during this transition, in which no NAB and state exams will be administered.

Please note that from June 2 through July 4, examinees will NOT have access to registering, reviewing scores, or requesting score transfer/diagnostic reports.

Beginning July 5, examinees will be able to apply for examination eligibility through a new application system called Clarus. Examinees will be able to access the exam application system through the NAB website, at www.nabweb.org/examinations. Again, please note that this new website will not be operational until July 5. Exam candidate records from the current application system will be transferred to the new application system.

Examinees and prospective examinees that have already received the authorization-to-test letter must either plan to take the exam in its current form by June 16, or to prepare to take the new examination form beginning on July 5.
