The Potato & Produce Project

Feeding America ♥ One Spud at a Time

Through the Potato and Produce Project, farmers, growers and other produce handlers donate truckloads of commercially unmarketable produce to SoSA West. They notify us when they have a tractor-trailer truck load and we pay to have it packaged and transported to a food bank that distributes food to people in need.

SoSA West works with farmers, growers and other produce handlers across the West, to distribute fresh produce to food banks across the western United States.

The Gleaning Network

GLEANING AMERICA'S FIELDS ♥ FEEDING AMERICA'S HUNGRY

The Gleaning Network is a network of volunteers willing and able to glean the fields and orchards after the harvest. SoSA West works with farmers and growers who agree to turn over their fields after they have harvested their crops. We work with church and civic groups to organize volunteers and teach them how to glean.

When the fields and orchards are ready to glean, we schedule gleaning events and bring in volunteers for an afternoon of fun and work.
