

Immunization Program Launches New Web Site

The Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services' Bureau of Immunization Assessment and Assurance recently unveiled a new web site, www.health.mo.gov/immunizations. The new site brings together the best in state and federal resources on immunizations to provide consumers with easy-to-navigate, easy-to-understand information.

The site offers information about immunizations required for school attendance; immunization recommendations for children, adolescents, adults and health care workers; vaccine safety and effectiveness; and diseases that immunizations prevent.

It also provides details on the Vaccines for Children program including eligibility, a locator tool to connect parents with program providers and Missouri's immunization registry, ShowMeVax.

Missouri's immunization program web site makes it easy to find tools and resources such as immunization schedules, materials for schools, and information on protecting against influenza available to order for direct shipment to the consumer's location at no cost.
