

What Does an MRSA Skin Infection Look Like?

An MRSA infection looks like many other types of skin infections such as those caused by staph, strep or other infectious organisms. It is often misdiagnosed as a “spider bite”. Anyone with these signs or symptoms should seek medical attention. The only conclusive way to make the diagnosis of an MRSA infection is for it to be cultured by a medical provider.

